YOUTH EDUCATION INITIATIVE OF THE YEAR

Mind Frame Grow

Founded by Luckshie Haran, who brings nearly two decades of global strategy consulting experience alongside seven years as a University of Melbourne lecturer, Mind Frame Grow was established to bring essential life skills to younger learners. Programmes are delivered through weekly sessions, holiday workshops, and customised in-school enrichment and co-curricular offerings. Through these, Mind Frame Grow empowers students to think strategically, communicate effectively, collaborate, lead, and approach challenges independently and with confidence, ensuring their abilities extend far beyond the traditional classroom. In addition, Mind Frame Grow facilitates workshops for adults and organisations, addressing critical skill gaps often not covered by traditional education.

The judges praised the programme's innovative approach, the consistently excellent feedback from parents, and its ability to engage and tailor content to the interests and learning styles of young people. They also highlighted the supportive ecosystem created through workshop summaries, practical parent tips, and personalised individual feedback. Each learning module follows the MIND FRAME GROW structure – building a strategic mindset, explicitly teaching practical frameworks, and growing skills through hands-on application, teamwork, and meaningful real-world scenarios. By guiding learners through structured, expert-led workshops, Mind Frame Grow provides a well-rounded and impactful pathway for skill development.
